PING PONG TOURNAMENT.

Tables have been put into the skating rink so that people who wish to practice may play in the afternoons between 3 and 6. The public is reminded that entries for the tournament are to be made at D. T. Ferguson's

COLD-BLOODED POLICEMAN.

Fernie, B. C., May 20. - Chased by an angry mob of 500 miners and citizens.
William Stevens a provincial policeman, lost no time in placing himself outside of the town limits. Stevens incensed the miners by stating that he wished 250 more miners had been killed in the explosion last week.
Careful and conservative checking of information from all sources now leads to the placing of the number of killed by the explosion at the Crow's Nest Coal company's mines at 151 and up to midnight last night but fifty bodies had been recovered. It is expected that many more bodies will be recovered during the night.

SLAPPED PREMIER'S FACE.

Victoria, B.C., May 28. - Yesterday's session was a heated one, marred by much warm language and a fight in the lobby.

The premier, in the heat of the moment, hurled the epithet "liar" across the floor at another member, and although he afterwards apologized for it to the house, he did so with qualifications, which left the sore an open and a festering one. The remark was used to Captain Tatlow, and afterwards the two men came together in the corridor and the premier made at the martial member from Vancouver, using a most offensive epithet in doing so.

Captain Tatlow slapped him on the cheek, and the intervention of the attorney-general prevented the matter going further, although the premier intimated that he would get square.

He got his opportunity after the rising of the house at 2:30 this morning.
Captain Tatlow coming down the steps of the building passed the premier waiting for his carriage, and remarked: "We are outside now, Dunsman; what have you to say about it?"
The premier did not reply, and the captain shouted "liar and cur" as the premier went to his carriage.

CAMERON'S ELECTION.

Mayor Cameron's election to the legislature was almost generally condemned by both parties, and that he would have a large majority was a foregone conclusion, but few, however, were prepared to see him make such a clean sweep in the three towns at the head of Lake of the Woods that the returns show. The member-elect is personally very popular—he never was an extreme partisan, and his last two years of public life have shown him to be a man of sound democratic ideas—no matter now what side of politics he is on. He has been elected not because he espoused the government's cause, but in spite of it. His recent heroic fight on the civic battlefield, when he stood upon the platform of municipality in defense of public utilities, won him the hearts of the people and the wreath of bay, and if ever the history of Rat Portage is written this episode will deserve a laudatory chapter.

The Conservatives who voted against Mr. Cameron yesterday did their duty, and he will think none the less of them for standing up like men for a principle. Neither will he blame those who refrained altogether from voting just because it was Mr. Cameron who happened to be the man who had to be voted against, nor will he entertain anything but an adequate estimate of the Tory who is thinking more about a man than his political ideals, voted for the man.

A man's sole judge is his own conscience, and he who voted as his conscience dictated did right; no matter how he might feel.

NOT.
Andrew Carnegie says if any young man has saved as much as fifty or a hundred dollars, I do not know any branch of business into which he cannot plunge at once."

That settles it. We've got a hundred dollars, and we are going to "plunge" and start up a pulp mill on Tunnel Island.

Thank you, Andy!

AND TOM.

Andrew Carnegie says during the same speech in which he advises the hundred dollar young man to go into business:

"Do not invest in any business concerns. Do you know that out of every hundred that attempt business on their own account, statistics go to show that only one business concern is successful?"

The Parting of Friends.

"Well, good luck, Jim."

"Good-bye, Bill, old boy."

On Friday at the Union Station two men shook hands, and Jim set off back in his seat, bound for New York, while Bill went home to his boarding-house on Mutual Street, and was alone. And that night he lay on the edge of the bed in his little room, and thought of Jim and through the early hours slept fitfully and came back in pleasant fancy. And in that eastward train a lone passenger sat thinking of the little room that now he loved so well, and he sighed.

Mr. S. D. Gray, Albury, Ont., writes: "My little granddaughter, Miss [illegible] of the [illegible] family, has just come to us from the [illegible] and is now in [illegible] with us."

MORE ABUNDANT LIFE.

New Canadians May Obtain That Which All Seek After.

The world's greatest hunger is life hunger.

"This life is best for man, for life, for health for which we pant, More life and fuller for what we want."

Perhaps the greatest mistake we make is that of measuring life by its quantity instead of its quality, its length instead of its depth; its years instead of its usefulness; its high purposes and its worthy aims, writes Rev. J. T. Sutherland in Toronto's Sunday World. The terrible thing about sin and evil in the heart is that they cripple life, they maim it in the very highest part of its nature. They make the soul sick and weak when it ought to be strong. Men often say, Let us indulge our appetites and passions without control or law, and thus enjoy life to the full! That is the way to make enjoyment of life to the full impossible. Moral health, not moral disease, is what men really want. Sin, self-indulgence and the "sowing of wild oats" always bring weakness, impotence, infirmity of life and misery in their train. There is no other such enemy of life as a pure and noble religion. This is because religion goes deeper than anything else in purifies and feeds the very springs of man's purposes, aims, ideals, set purposes and does it in a way that new moral aspirations, moral initiative, moral power, and those that revives society and gives the only enduring foundation for states nations and civilizations.

Jesus said: "I came that they might have life and that life might be more abundant." What a mission was that! His heart was ever close to His brother, and so He felt the joys and sorrows, the hopes and fears, the temptations and struggles of humanity as His own. His soul was ever close to God, and so the tides of the Infinite life swept through Him. Hence His power to become a giver of life, and life at its deepest, richest, divinest, to His fellow men. Are any of us weak? Do we feel the currents of the higher life of the spirit run feebly within us? Let us take His strong hand in ours, and be led by His to the fathoms of the Infinite Fountain which flows for us in God.

Many School Children are Pale, Weak and Nervous.

Debilitated and Exhausted in Mind and Body—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is Surprisingly Beneficial for Children.

The severe and ever-increasing strain of competitive examinations coming at a time when every boy and girl is undergoing trying physiological changes does much towards making mental and physical wrecks of school children. The result is that with the blood thin and watery and the nervous system exhausted, children have no chance to escape the many ills that beset a feeble body. There is no treatment known to science that so naturally and thoroughly restores strength and vitality to the nervous system as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It makes parents happy by helping back the color to the faces and the strength and elasticity to the bones of their pale, puny children.

Mr. S. D. Gray, Albury, Ont., writes: "My little granddaughter, Miss [illegible] of the [illegible] family, has just come to us from the [illegible] and is now in [illegible] with us."

A Hospital Calendar.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society have initiated a scheme called the Calendar Scheme, whereby they desire to materially aid in the erection of a wing to the Jubilee Hospital, Rat Portage. This Calendar Scheme, if properly carried out, ought to realize over $1,000 for the Hospital.

OUTLINE OF SCHEME.—The head of the scheme shall be known as the Year, who shall pay to the Calendar Fund the sum of $2.00. The Year shall appoint thirteen persons, who shall be known as Months, who shall pay to the Year a fee of $1.00 each, the Year handing over these fees to the Treasurer to be placed by her to the credit of the Calendar Fund. Each of the thirteen Months shall appoint four persons to be known as Weeks; each Week shall pay as soon as convenient to the Month who appointed her a fee of 50c, and each Month shall forward the same to the Treasurer. Each of the Sixty-two Weeks shall appoint seven persons to be known as Days—365 Days in all. Each Day will pay to the week who appointed her a fee of 25c, and the Week shall forward the same to the Treasurer. Each of the Days shall endeavor to collect the sum of $2.00—that is, an average of 10c from twenty-four hours. When a Day has completed her collection she shall hand the amount to the week who appointed her who shall forward the same to the Treasurer.

If the scheme is fully carried out the result should be as follows:

Fees from one Year,	$	2.00
Fees from 13 Months,	$	13.00
Fees from 32 Weeks,	$	26.00
Fees from 365 Days,	$	91.00
Fees from 8,735 Hours,	$	873.00

hundred dollars, I do not know any branch of business into which he can not plunge at once."

That settles it. We've got a hundred dollars, and we are going to "plunge" and start up a pulp mill on Tunnel island.

Thank you Andie!

AND CO.

Andrew Carnegie says during the speech in which he advises the hundred dollar young man to go into business:

"Do not invest in any business concerns. Do you know that out of every hundred that attempt business on their own account, statistics go to show that ninety-five sooner or later fail?"

Reduced down to common sense, Carnegie's philosophy in plain English means this:

If a young man has lots of pluck here is no reason why he should not go and take a bridge over Niagara falls. But if he does not want to be late or Sunday school, we would strongly urge him to take mortgages on widow's houses instead as a business venture because statistics go to show that out of every hundred who have jumped over Niagara Falls, ninety-five have got their feet wet.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

On account of the agitation raised in Port Arthur and Fort William in favor of nominal ownership of the telephone system and the decision of the twin towns to install their own plant, the Bell Telephone Co. has reduced their rates to $24 per annum for business phones and $12 for residence.

There are eighteen volcanoes in the United States and eleven in Alaska. There are none in the Eastern States and Eastern Canada that is now known to have been active in millions of years. Several of the western volcanoes have shown signs of life in the past, and may not now be dead.

CORPUS CHRISTI.

On Sunday morning the festival of Corpus Christi, will be observed with great solemnity at Notre Dame church. Forty children will receive their first communion and the service in honor of the event will be an impressive one. A low mass will be said at ten o'clock, during which the children will receive holy communion and at half-past ten open high mass will be celebrated, a grand procession of the children occurring during the service.

In the evening all vespers the children will renew the baptismal vows made on their behalf by the god parents, and will take part in the missal services.

The Parting of Friends.

"Good-bye, Jim," said Bill, "old boy."

On Friday at the Union Station two men shook hands, and Jim set off back in his seat bound for New York, while Bill went home to his boarding-house on Mutual street, and was alone. And that night he sat on the edge of the bed in his little room, and thought of Jim, and through the early hours sleep fled, and Jim came back in pleasing fancy. And in that eastbound train one passenger sat thinking of the little room that now he loved so well, and he sighed as he thought of the strange faces he must meet, and he longed for the man he had left behind.

Jim had not before appreciated, nor had Bill fully realized, the meaning of their friendship, until the time was served by cruel distance, but now, all past, both regretted that they had not done more for each other when they had had the chance. We are all human and like Jim and Bill we forgot that soon we must separate and each alone travel that far, far journey where bright but good remains. Then we wish that we had done more, left the graves will mock; we shall grieve, but their earth will not give up her dead. And as we think on the might-have-beens, perhaps the soul will flood with sorrow. How many today are longing for the friendly word? Speak it. How many have fallen for the lack of the friendly touch? Put forth the hand. 'Tis the simple act that tells; "And he saved a soul." We are a long-time dead, and caught it but good remains.

Gathering riches and leave a mountain of glittering gold a stately mansion, but give me the plain white shirt if but registered hands may have. There is a man who was a friar in a little Church in Toronto.

It Spelled the Name.

He up to a Toronto hotel registered his name with a flourish. "K. P. Pathologynorth," "Thinner," exclaimed the man who knew him well. "Are you going for you or what? Where does this outlandish name come from?" "It's my boy, get back!" she replied. "That's my name, written in plain English and uncurled as usual—just Turner. Look at it, of course I do, it just to get them all guessing. They wonder what nation I am from, what my name is! I can now bear nobody tells about me all around. It is as I said before. English spelling there is the sound of 'the' in 'pathology'; 'thin' there is the 'e' in 'thin'; 'turner' is the sound of 'er' in 'turner'. Now, if that does not spell 'Turner' what does it spell?"

Debilitated and Exhausted in Mind and Body—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is Surprisingly Beneficial for Children.

The severe and ever-increasing strain of competitive examinations coming at a time when every boy and girl is undergoing trying physiological changes does much towards making mental and physical wrecks of school children. Run down in health, with the blood thin and watery and the nervous system exhausted, children have no chance to escape the many ills that beset a feeble body. There is no treatment known to science that so naturally and thoroughly restores strength and energy to the nervous system as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It makes parents happy by bringing back the color to the faces and the strength and elasticity to the bodies of their pale, plodding children.

Mrs. S. Dempsey, Abury, Ont., writes:—My little granddaughter, nine years old, was pale and weak, she had no appetite and seemed to be gradually growing weaker. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proved invaluable in her case, restoring health and color and making her strong and well.

WHACKER
BILL'S CONVERSION

By H. Wadsworth Parker

Copyright, 1902, by
S. S. McClure Company

The Rev. John Rollins did not notice that his wife was holding out his bear skin coat with both hands. He continued to stare into the depths of the open fireplace.

The nickel alarm clock ticked noisily on the high mantelshelf, the only sound in the cabin tucked under Bilger's hill. The minute hand touched 12, and Mrs. Rollins coughed apologetically.

The Reverend John came out of his trance and slipped into the waiting coat. His wife cast an adoring look up at his square shouldered six feet one.

"I hated to interrupt your thoughts, Jack, but the stage is due in a minute. Were you thinking of your sermon?"

"Not much, my girl," replied Rollins. "I was thinking of that twenty-four-mile ride with Whacker Bill. It is honestly the worst feature of this charge. I like to go over to Las Vegas. They're friendly set, and they're always glad to see me. But the ride—that foul mouthed Bill, with his swearing at every rut in the road! But I'll cure him yet. I feel somehow as if I'd been sent to this place to save Whacker Bill's soul, and I'm going to do it."

John Rollins set his mouth in the firm curve that his wife could remember from the old football days, long before he had taken orders in the church.

The little woman clasped and unclasped her hands nervously.

"I hope, Jack, dear, you'll be very, very careful in dealing with Bill. He's an awful character, they say—and"—

"Yes, he claims to be the champion bad man of the Las Vegas valley, but you remember that certain little sly once did the business with another braggart, and I'm loading up with stones for the same trick."

He smiled cheerily into his wife's anxious face, kissed her tenderly and crossed to the door.

"Don't worry, little woman. I won't hurt him or lay myself liable to the law."

The Reverend Rollins threw open the door and gazed down the winding mountain street. The commotion in front of the postoffice told him that the stage had arrived. He walked down the flower edged path to meet it.

When the stage plunged and swayed past the cabin, Mrs. Rollins waved her hand to her husband, sitting straight and smiling beside the rough driver. Then she ran into the house, where, burying her face in her husband's big chair, she had a hearty cry.

On and on swung the stage, Bill chatting amiably of his former triumphs when the vigilantes represented the law and life was worth living. The latter continued to gaze at him sternly.

"You psychological progeny of a mythological ancestry, you zanthidium cosmopolite, you problematical descendant of decadent progenitors, I want you to understand that when I'm riding with you and there's any swearing to be done I will do it! You don't know good cuss words when you see them!"

The stage drew up before the Empire hotel. Five minutes later Whacker Bill stumbled up to the bar and asked huskily for his usual drink.

"Make it two, Jiminy, make it two, and make 'em stiff!"

And he drank them slowly, staring moodily across the rim of his glass at the circle of men who wondered if Bill had a "tech" of malaria.

That night after Rollins had conducted evening service in the chapel and had baptized two babies he returned to the Empire hotel to find Whacker Bill waiting for him. They went to his room in silence, and the bad man of Las Vegas valley laid a motley array of trophies on the missionary's table.

"That's a couple uv leads as was found in men I put to sleep; that's a dock uv Jim Dewey's hair, him that I knocked out in four roun's in eighty-one; that's a couple uv claws from a grizzly I laid out in a clean fight an' a gun I yanked from as good an Injun as ever is ever at dust. They're yours!"

Rolling looked at the bad man in well issued amazement.

"Why are you bringing them to me?"

"You've earned 'em, pardner. I thought I could swear, but I ain't one-two-three with you. We can't walk on the same side uv the street when it comes to cussin'. Take 'em. It's a match that if we put up a cussin' match you'd win, an' I'm ready to cry quits to do it."

John Rollins set his mouth in the firm curve that his wife could remember from the old football days, long before he had taken orders in the church.

The little woman clasped and unclasped her hands nervously.

"I hope, Jack, dear, you'll be very,

KIPLING EULOGIZED

A CANADIAN LADY'S PAPER ON "KIP-LING THE COLONIST."

His Infinite Variety of Scenes and Subject
the Source of His Influence—A Man Who Belongs to "Greater Britain."
His Patriotism Is, Says the Essayist, a Same Love of Country and Not Jingoism.

Miss Jean Graham's paper on "Kipling, the Colonist," at a recent meeting of the Woman's Historical Society in Toronto, has drawn forth many favorable comments. A resume of the paper is as follows: To the English-speaking world Kipling is undoubtedly the most interesting of living writers. One source of his influence is his infinite variety of scene and subject. Some of his readers hardly know whether to regard him as a profane Tommy Atkins, with an "onion-thirst," or as a prophetic bard. Many who were shocked by "Gunga Din" and who regarded Ferenc Molnáry as a hopeless romantic, were completely won over by the stately chords of "The Recessional." Those who have followed his writings have seen, beneath the scoffing cynicism of his early verse, the stirring of a nature that feels all too keenly life's ironies. Although Kipling has been discussed until it would seem that of all men there is one aspect of his genius that is comparatively unknown, during Kipling's visit to America the question as to whether he was an English or an American product was discussed, both English and American critics seeming to forget the Greater Britain to which Kipling belongs. His song of "Delicacy" in the Volume "Son of Neas" shows how strong is his devotion to Bombay, the city of his birth. Never long forget the native born. Kipling's knowledge of India is deep and comprehensive. The learned tools who would declare just what India needs to those whose heads have grown white of government meet with no mercy from Kipling. His idea of colonial responsibility where he weaker races are to be controlled, is gained from his poem "The White Man's Burden" in which he speaks as man to a world of men. He has conceived of the true imperialism—the empire founded on the service of men who look beyond the tearing and the wreath.

The patriotism of Kipling cannot be questioned. But it is some love of country—not the vulgar sort that is more of shouting than of sacrifice. He does not scruple to arraign England and when she fails to realize that her empire is more than the Strand and Hollow Hill. His love is to Kipling a veritable drug. In his tale, in one of his latest stories, who lacks "God's own common sense" and the obtuse officer who would wait for orders through the Heaven-fell. Kipling is decidedly non-English, and shows the quickness of the colonial who must adapt himself to new conditions and to overcome for tall, to the size of stupidity.

The dual love of the colonist—for Canada and for Motherland seems to be a mystery to certain foreign critics. Kipling does not exalt war, but he loves the leader. Always the same—

"DOES MOTHER WANT ME?"

The little fellow has blown with all his strength, and the downy tufts still cling to the dandilion stem. According to the legend of childhood "mother" does not want him. But mother would tell a different story. She has a different lung, and if she saw him now, flushed with his unusual effort and struggling to stifle the cough which followed it, she'd feel how much she wanted him, and wanted those "weak" lungs made strong, that she might not lose him.

For "weak" lungs, obstinate cough, hemorrhage, weakness and emaciation there is no medicine so healing and so strengthening as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is especially valuable for children, building up weak bodies with sound, healthy flesh. It is entirely free from alcohol and narcotics.

Entirely safe, this my oldest boy, who is now nearly ten years old, has been taking it since he had it the whole winter and all summer, writes J. M. Farr, Esq., of Cameron, Scriven Co., Ga. "Physicians tell him no good and nothing will cure him. I can't afford to pay for it, but after your Discovery had cured my son so quickly when everything else failed, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he sent me a bottle of his Golden Medical Discovery for a time to be entirely recovered.

The Common Sense Medical Adviser sent over on receipt of stamp to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper-bound book, or 50 stamps for cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is a great influx of commercial travellers in town just now, who are taxing the hotels for sample room accommodation, vacant stores being hired for this purpose. The congestion will be relieved somewhat tonight when a number of them leave for the east.

A house at Keewatin on the south side of the track near Captain Johnson's residence, was burnt Wednesday. The building was an old landmark, having been standing for the last twenty years.

How many hospital cards have you got your name on? It only costs 10c to register.

The Dominion Express Company will carry free of charge all money sent to Fernie, B.C., for the relief of the families of the miners who were killed in the recent mining disaster there, if such packages are addressed to the "Relief Committee" Mayor, or Secretary of Fernie Board of Trade.

WONDERFUL HOME HELPERS.

The Ablest Analytical Chemists Say They are the Best.

The ablest and best analytical chemists in the world affirm without hesitation that Diamond Dyes are the purest and best dyestuffs for home dyeing. All the colors are guaranteed fast to light and washing with soap; they color more goods, package for package than any other dye in the world.

As there are imitations of the popular Diamond Dyes, ladies should be careful of dealers who attempt to recommend the worthless makes. It should be remembered that these imitation dyes are made up of poisonous and dangerous adulterations, and the hands are often injured by them. Diamond Dyes are so easy to use that even a child can work with them successfully. See that your dealer supplies you with the "Diamond" before all others.

If you are interested in home mat and rug making, send your address to The Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, 300 Mountain St., Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost new designs to select from.
